

Regulation of "indecentcy" in the form of violence, profanity or sex must be strictly limited to the 6 AM to 10 PM hours on the public airwaves. Any regulation of indecentcy from 10 PM until 6 AM on the public airwaves or any such regulation whatsoever on cable/satellite/subscription channels would be a gross and unwarranted violation of the First Amendment. The FCC may not ignore the Constitution and attempt to bar indecentcy from the public airwaves entirely. The FCC may not ignore the Constitution and attempt to bar indecentcy from cable/satellite/subscription channels at any time during the day, even at peak times of child viewership. We must err on the side of freedom rather than erring on the side of regulation. If you must enforce your rules more strictly, then please don't expand your authority. Simply patrol the 6 AM to 10 PM hours on the public airwaves. Please leave nighttime, and cable, alone entirely. Thank you.
